1. About the Prize

The Wellcome Trust Book Prize is an annual prize of £25 000 that celebrates medicine in literature. The Prize recognises literature of the highest quality that engages with the human experience of health and illness or otherwise promotes excitement and interest in medical science. We are looking for books that will capture the public's interest around the theme of medicine.

The Prize will be open to books published in the UK over the period of one year, including works of fiction and non-fiction. Books published in English translation are eligible, provided that they have been published in English in the course of the Prize year.

The Prize will be judged by an independent panel of judges and will be presented at a prestigious ceremony in Wellcome Collection – the Wellcome Trust's highly acclaimed cultural venue for medicine, life and art.

Aims of the Prize

The Wellcome Trust Book Prize celebrates high-quality literature that centres on medical or biomedical themes. The Prize aims to:

- stimulate interest, excitement and debate about medicine and literature
- reach audiences not normally engaged with medical science
- encourage new ways of thinking about medicine by reaching the broadest possible audience.

2. How the Prize works

- a. A total of £25 000 will be made available per year. As the Prize is open to multi-author submissions, as well as books published in translation, the Prize money may have to be shared with a coauthor or translator. If a translated book wins, two-thirds of the Prize money will be awarded to the author and one-third to the translator.
- b. The award will be made on a yearly basis.
- c. To be eligible, books must be published between 1 October 2011 and 30 September 2012.
- d. The judges and chair will first decide on a shortlist of six books, to be announced in October 2012. A winner will be announced at an awards ceremony to be held at Wellcome Collection in early November 2012.
- e. Shortlisted authors will be asked to participate in some events (e.g. readings at Wellcome Collection, etc.). These will take place between October and November 2012.

3. Eligible books

- a. Books must be published by a UK-based publisher during the Prize year.
- b. Books published in English translation are eligible, provided that they have been published in English in the course of the Prize year.
- c. Books cannot be reissues.
- d. Books of fiction or non-fiction are eligible, so long as medicine or medical science is central to their theme. Collections of short stories are eligible but anthologies will not be considered.
- e. Academic textbooks, scholarly monographs and picture-led books will not be eligible, even if they are relevant to medicine or medical science.
- f. Children's books will only be accepted on the condition that they have also been published by an adult imprint within the specified dates.
- g. Self-published books are not eligible where the author is the publisher or where a company has been specifically set up to publish the book.
- h. Authors must be living at the time of the submission.
- i. Online submissions will only be accepted from an established imprint and on the condition that five copies are downloaded for the judges' consideration. In the event that an online book is shortlisted, the publisher must undertake to produce hard copies and make these available for sale as soon as the shortlist is announced.
- j. The decision of the judging panel as to whether a book is eligible shall be binding and no correspondence shall be entered into.
- k. No entry shall be ineligible because its author has won either the Prize or any other prize previously.
- l. All submissions are made on a confidential basis.

4. Entry of books

- a. UK publishers may enter up to three books, with scheduled publication dates between 1 October 2011 and 30 September 2012.
- b. The deadline for entry forms is 13 April 2012. Each submission must be accompanied by a completed entry form. If finished copies are not available by 15 April, bound proofs may be submitted on condition that they are of good quality and that the content reflects that of the final book. If proofs are submitted, final copies should be sent in as soon as they are available. Final texts must be submitted by 29 June 2012.
- c. Five copies of each entry must be submitted to Colman Getty (see entry form, below) and not directly to the judges.
- d. The judges may also, not later than 31 July 2012, call in any book published between 1 October 2011 and 30 September 2012. In that event the publisher will be asked to submit a completed entry form, along with five copies of the book.
- e. No book entered by publishers or called in by the judges will be returned to the publishers.
- f. The competition is not open to employees or contractors of the Wellcome Trust or any of its associated companies, or their direct family members, or to any person directly or indirectly involved in the organisation or running of the Book Prize or their direct family members.
